

This paper presents an analysis of the metaphorical comprehension of slavie notions of rightness, true, justice and law, derived from the root -prav-. At first we examine the explication of this comprehension what was proposed by some of cognitives linguists (namely by Alan Cienki). Afterwards we target the meanings of some non-indoeuropean and proto-indoeuropean bases of this words and we explore the mechanisms which could be fontals for their conceptualisation.