Course of defence: The committee appreciates the work "Job Reallocation and Wage Structure in the Czech Republic Based on ISPV Data" of Maksim Smirnov with this type of data, as well as the descriptive evidence that has been assembled on job re-allocation in the Czech Republic during this period. At the same, the thesis would benefit from a clearer economic motivation and hypotheses; more thorough thinking about the role of business cycle stages, given the relatively short duration of the studied period; the role of the relatively high size of the firms and how that may affect the level of representativeness of the provided evidence. The committee also felt that number of questions asked during the defense, including those in the reports, could have been answered more convincingly.
