

Abstract

The thesis describes practical tasks for the lecture of Artificial Intelligence, that is to introduce students to basic structures and algorithms of this field of informatics: rational agent, uninformed and informed search, adversarial search and algorithms solving constraint satisfaction problems. It consists of the motivation for their creation, their implementation and documentation.