Abstract

This thesis will discuss the characters in Exemplary Novels from Miguel Cervantes. The aim is to form a typology of the characters using a thorough analysis that focuses on the most essential characteristics of the characters and highlights their qualities and origins. Based on this analysis, the characters will be divided into groups with the same traits, thus forming a coherent overview. Thanks to this typology, the creative dynamics of the author can be understood better. Characters, typology, Exemplary Novels, Miguel Cervantes, picaresque novel
