Reviews read and commented on by the candidate
doc. Alice Němcová Tejkalová (supervisor):
In her thesis, Annika Stricker convincingly showed that she is able to conduct independent research of high quality. The topic belongs to those, which are important to be analyzed but do not have enough attention, even though the times have been slightly changing. The level of academic writing and the presentation of results are excellent, the use of other sources carefully referenced. Therefore, I suggest to grade this thesis by A.
Suggested Grade A

Veronika Macková, Ph.D. (opponent)
The author of the thesis has used an academic writing style, and the grammar and spelling are exemplary. The quality of the layout of the text and appendices is of a high standard. The chapters build on each other, and the author interprets the results of her research very clearly.

Suggested Grade: A

Questions asked and answered:

Supervisor

doc. Alice Němcová Tejkalová

Do you think there is a way how to improve the situation of female reporters in conflict zones?

Have you ever considered to be a reporter in Latin America? What would you do to prevent the situations happening to the female journalists there?

Opponent

Veronika Macková, Ph.D.

In which areas of journalism could similar situations occur?

Do you have any information about how it looks like in other countries in this field of journalism?
