

Abstract (in English):

The aim of the present work is to map, describe, and analyze archeological evidence of Hittites–Mycenaean interaction in the late Bronze Age and based on that deduce some legitimate conclusions. I will focus on small finds such as ceramic materials, seals and seal impressions, metal figurines, or militaries. The research subject will be also the architecture of Hittites and Mycenaean fortifications, which constitute several identical similarities for instance corbelled vaults, posterns, cyclopean masonry but also some handcraft relief works.
