

Abstract

In addition to political and economic power, the city of the Jagiellonian era also exerted its influence in the specific space of the Utraquist spiritual sphere. The subject of this work is to determine the degree of influence of the city council on church conditions in the city at the turn of the 15th and 16th centuries. In Kutná Hora and describe the mechanisms of municipal power in this area. The environment of the mining town associated with a high accumulation of financial and resources and people leads to the question of how these aspects manifested themselves in the relations between the town and the church. The degree of influence of the city of Kutná Hora on local church conditions can be church institutions. The degree of influence of the city of Kutná Hora on local church conditions can be observed in the relationship.