

The thesis is dealing with potential of improvement of coaching methods in school psychologist practices. The theoretical part of the thesis is focused on coaching trends and mapping different accesses to coaching. The practical part is dealing with specific method of coaching - the Inner Game, which was created by Timothy Gallwey and its use two cases in school psychologist practices.