

Abstract

The thesis is devoted to the examination of the material aspect of administrative offences. It opens with the basic theoretical background, summary of the literature and historical excursion. Main part of the thesis is focused on a detailed analysis of the material aspect of the administrative offences from the perspective of legislation, case law and administrative practice. The author approaches the topic in an analytical manner, identifies possible ambiguities and offers suggestions for their elimination.