

The author of the work-related psychological problems of patients in intensive care, which leads to reduced quality of life.