

The bachelor thesis presents and examines social issues, social services and activities in the locality of Hradec-Rokle. Based on the conducted investigation, it analyzes the activities and services offered, the use of social services and the declared needs of service users in this location. Qualitative research in the locality determines the scope and development possibilities of the necessary social services. The development of services leading to the improvement of the living situation of the inhabitants of the given locality will be proposed.