

Main goal of this work is to create reference guide to system ATOD TV that I have developed in Java language as a part of the bachelor thesis. ATOD TV editors are used in particular to simplify the work in the production of television programs for various clients. The system contains components to facilitate the work of obtaining data and data processing in a single form. At the end of the system is presented in the case of data processing for one station.