

Abstract

The topic of this thesis is a Reflection of police work from 1989 to the present. The thesis is divided into a theoretical part, which describes the organization structures of the police with a focus on criminal police, the literature i used, and the thesis of my predecessors. Further the practical part, in which the reflection of the police officers who serve in the police force for the whole specified period of time on the different areas of criminal activity is determined with the help of guided interviews. The aim of the thesis is to provide the public with the views of police officers on their work and its development over time since revolution to this day.

Keywords: Police of the Czech Republic, reflection, crime, oral history,