

The purpose of the master's thesis is to characterise historical aspects of the US information policy and its specific features. Furthermore, I focus on the outline of the biographical data of Bill Clinton and Albert Gore.

The aim of this thesis is to present a detailed description and definition of the US information policy during the Clinton – Gore presidency, a detailed summary and description of particular initiatives.

Subsequently, the thesis provides an outline of US information policy during the George W. Bush presidency.