

ABSTRACT

Name and surname of the author: Adriana Skálová

Institution: Charles University in Prague,
Faculty of Medicine in Hradec Králové,
Department of Non-medical Studies

Title: Awareness and Knowledge of Adolescents Regarding the Risks of Early Initiation of Sexual Activity

Supervisor: Mgr. Jana Matulová

Number of pages: 83

Number of attachments: 4

Year of defense: 2024

Keywords: sexual education, youth, adolescence, primary school, sexually transmitted diseases, contraceptive methods, vaccination, prevention, risks of early initiation of sexual activity

This bachelor thesis deals with the awareness of youth regarding the risks of early initiation of sexual activity. It is structured into theoretical and empirical parts.

The theoretical section includes chapters on the period of adolescence and sexual education. It also addresses selected sexually transmitted diseases (hereinafter referred to as STDs), including their history, prevention, and diagnosis. The thesis also discusses barrier contraception and the concept of sexual education.

The empirical part of this thesis is carried out through a non-standardized quantitative questionnaire survey among 7th and 8th-grade students, aged 13-15. The main aim of this part is to assess the extent of knowledge and awareness of primary school students regarding the risks of early initiation of sexual activity.