

TITLE: Slavic words in the German language

SUMMARY: My work „ Slavic words in the German language” shows the review of the Slavic terms, which get during various époques into the German. I´ve sorted the words after their origin, type and I´ve tried to confront them with standard dictionaries (etymologic, universal...). Further I present impacts that affect the Austria German, which is characteristic for the typical derivations from the Czech. I deal with names and geographic terms that came during the time from divers Slavic languages into the German. In the empiric part I evaluate the influence of the Slavic languages on the German following the weekly research of Austria and German newspaper, which brought me surprising results in form of the achievement of one word and its modification and further the mainly influence of the Russian.
