

Abstract:

The thesis Teaching the History of the Czech Language at Grammar School deals with the current teaching of this theme at grammar schools. The thesis presents the possibilities for the inclusion of this theme within the Framework Educational Programme for Secondary General Education (Grammar Schools) and their realisation in School Educational Programmes of grammar schools of five regions. Using a questionnaire, it investigates teaching practices of Czech language teachers from these regions and the presentation of the theme in textbooks and workbooks they use. In addition, the thesis summarizes the way in which this topic is treated in pedagogical guides, presents relevant electronic sources and gives possibilities for thematic excursions. As a supplement to the thesis, we include a list of schools from the selected regions supplemented with information related to the history of the Czech language contained in their School Educational Programmes.
