

The aim of this thesis is to contribute to understanding the mechanisms and regulatory pathways by which hormones influence prostate tissue. Includes a total of 4 experimental work dealing with hormonal environment in men with prostate cancer and benign prostatic hyperplasia.