

Abstract

This work reviews strategies for varroa mite control focusing on drugs characteristics. Experimental part of this work evaluates combination of two chosen „soft chemicals“ thymol and formic acid. This combination seems to be beneficial – increase of effect is 18 % comparing to formic acid alone. This result will need further confirmation.