

Abstract:

The theoretical part of this Bachelor Thesis focuses on analysis of the needs and experiences of seniors and informal caregivers. The work focuses on the definition of needs and their changes during care. The needs are followed by the topic of counseling for informal caregivers and other options for their support. The empirical part focuses on evaluating the needs of caregivers, whose seniors are clients of Diakonie Praha's care service. The aim of the research is to find out how the Diakonie Praha care service can respond to the specific requirements of carers.
