

This thesis contains knowledge about the expert background of the Czech political parties ODS, ANO 2011 and STAN. The author of the thesis here focuses on experts inside and outside the parties who are not known to ordinary voters. It points to the opponents who cooperate with these parties and thus shape their policies subsequently represented by the main faces and elected politicians of these parties. It analyzes the procedures and hierarchy by which the individual professional components within the parties are managed and reveals how cooperation with youth organizations and think tanks and government offices works. The work was solved using semi-structured interviews with representatives of individual political parties and their experts. The conclusion of my work is knowledge about the internal functioning of expert capacities in political parties and a description of their work.
