

The work describes art project preparation and its carrying out two methodic lines. The first one is devoted to colours and its aim is playing with colours and development of colour perceiving abilities. In the other methodology line connection between different school subjects is examined, relationships between literature, drama and art. The line content is based on the mystic legend about Daidalos and Ikaros.