

My dissertation „An Anarchism and Culture, The Tradition of Anarchism in Czech Lands deals with phenomenon of anarchism and its role in intellectual tradition of Western civilization from the time of its inception in the middle of 19th century till the present time. I was trying to advert ideological disunity of anarchist movement by introduction of the main trends within the scope of anarchism. However the emphasis on freedom and tendency to extricate from the chains of dominancy in political, economical and moral ways is common to all anarchist trends.

The principal aim of my dissertation was especially to present the tradition role of anarchism in czech lands with description of its evolution with all its inspiration sources and significance for czech society. Above all I was interested in evolution of czech anarchist movement after the fall of communism and its changing in last years. I was trying to create an image of contemporary anarchist movement in Czech republic in terms of content analysis of anarchistic media and documents and from my own experiences too.
