

The submitted work is concentrated on the topic of transition the child from the nursery school to the primary school. An important factor which is the main problem of the start to school is a school maturity and preparing for school attendance. The work is finding how children of pre - school - age and younger - school - age are able to work. The main methods of experimental saving are experimental sond and observation.