

The topic of the diploma thesis is The national budget and its role in the instruction of the Social sciences. I decided to specify the heart of the matter of the national budget and its role in the economies of the developed countries, its position in the economy of the Czech Republic, its incomes and expenditures, their balance and the most important features of the fiscal policy. Another objective of my thesis was to evaluate the significance of this problem in the instruction of the Social sciences at secondary schools and its position in the Framework Educational Programme. The main aim of the thesis was to suggest the way of teaching this topic in the Social sciences.