

The submitted work is concentrated on the topic of genetic methods in current practice. An important factor is the development of literacy training and reading. The work highlights the various stages of reading, ie, preparation for reading, hearing and vision development and reading comprehension. The objective of the methodological procedures applied in the genetic method of reading training.

Key words:

Literacy

Reading with comprehension

Genetic Method

Block letter

Analysis

Synthesis