

Thesis is dealing with analysis of the church sermons in the SDA Church of the Slovak Republic (further just SDA Church). The aim of the thesis is to evaluate and to analyse the qualitative requirements of the sacral sermon directed at the quality of life. Thesis is divided to a theoretical and a practical part. The theoretical part defines quality of life and its requirements of life regarding tridimensionality of a human. The practical part carries out analysis of the sacral sermons samples of the SDA Church and the project survey performed by questionnaires. The author analyses fifty sermons of the SDA Church and surveys the living condition of the homiletic area with the concern on the questions of the quality of life. The results are compared with the theory and in the end there are stimuli reported for the contemporary homiletic practise.
