

My Bachelor work is called 'The individualization in the houses on a half way' with concentrating on an individual plan, and changes connecting to the introduction of the standard of the social services quality I engaged in getting acquainted with the law No.108/2006 sb., about Social Services, changes that this law brings, Quality standards of Social Services, and their requirements. Then I was devoting an individual work with clients and an individual planning on that basis. Since this work has been oriented at The Houses on a half way above all I wanted to get known this Service well, find out who is this service for and how it works. I interviewed welfare workers from The house on a half way in Hrochův Týnec. I've tried to do justice to the main changes which the law No. 108/2006 has brought and which are connected with an implementation of "The Quality standards of social services" to practise (to real life). The main objective of this work was not even drawing near the new things these two documents have brought, what they are here for and what objective they have, but also bringing near how the individual planning works, its producing and what it is dedicated to. The partial target was to find out what changes these documents have brought to practise. The methods I have chosen for this research are first the interview with some welfare workers and the analysis of the documents I have mentioned above.
