

The thesis is dealing with potential of improvement of coaching methods in school psychologist practices and school environment. Theoretical part of the thesis is focused on coaching trends and mapping different accesses to coaching. The practical part is dealing with specific method of coaching, the Inner Game, which was created by Timothy Gallwey and its utilization in in two cases in school psychologist practice.