

The theoretical part is focused on the issue of class environment, social relationships in the class and pupil's self-esteem in the context of the class.

The practical part contains research which was drawn as a comparison of class climate and relationships among pupils in selected fifth grade and afterward in sixth grade of basic school.