"The purpose of the thesis is to find out if there are adequate informations on the initial care of newborn infants, which are directly related to mothers with severe hearing impairments, or determine what other sources of information techniques used by mothers in contact with medics and other hearing people in order to obtain full-fledged information affecting the care of newborns. There are also very basic records showing the lack of information relating to the care of newborns, which should be the mother (especially primipara cares) mediated."
