

The presented thesis deals with the problems of execution of punishment, i.e. imprisonment within the category of the permanently unemployable condemned. The theoretical part focuses on the situation of the Czech prison system, the Prison Service of the Czech Republic, the function of execution of punishment and on the professionals.

The practical part consists of the analysis of questionnaires completed by specialized department employees from the Pardubice Prison, Stockade Praha -Ruzyně, Břeclav Prison a Karviná Prison.

The practical part also includes an analysis of answers by the condemned persons from specialized department for the permanently unemployable condemned from Pardubice Prison and Stockade Praha - Ruzyně.

The thesis refers to specific aspects of this category of condemned persons and also to demands on employees entrusted with this category of condemned persons.