

Thesis - Project teaching – composes of the theoretical and practical part. The theoretical part summarizes the most important aspects of the theme ranging from the history, the advantages and disadvantages, the project typology to the teacher's role in this teaching method. The practical part deals with the creation and execution of the project itself.

The Anti-drug plan is the subject for the personality social education, but it also provides enough opportunities for handling information from different sources. The output of the project is focused on the ability to take one's bearing in the branch pertinent to our modern life – computer science, particularly in terms of the competence and skills needed for the use of multimedia technique. The project may also contribute to the linkage of theoretical knowledge with the pupils' personal experience.

The project is fit for the classes at the time when pupils take their bearing in the basic terminology and areas relating to drugs and the above-mentioned computer science.
