

This graduation thesis provides an outline of Czech Biblical translation since the battle of Bílá hora (1620) till the second edition of the Bible of Pressburg. It explores the historical background of the translations and analyzes selected grammatical and lexical phenomena from the translational point of view.