

In my diploma work – Social work as one of the commitments of a Christian - I deal with an influence of christian message on formation of the social work. On examples of bilical passages I want to show, that christianity is a religion with a clear social aspect. Whitout practical filling of service to a fellow would christianity loose one of its pillar. In excursion into history of christian social activities I focused on a primitive church, next on the situation in Middle Age and at the end on modern history with a overrun to presence. A part of historic excursion is also an analysis of Papal social encyclics, which are a background of catholical social doctrine and they are reacting on actual social situation in christian perspective. At the end I deal with chosen social activities of today churches D in comparison of individual and institutional social activities.
