

The objective of my thesis is execute the marketing research of Adidas brand, who is a producer of sports goods, within the choosen population sample. Research was done by face – to – face asking within the choosen population in Czech republic. The questionare was available to respondents by face–to- face asking, and consisted questions regarding the image, products, promotion and trades.

Key words : marketing research, image, brand, corporate identity