

This diploma work is about endoscopy and the relative thesis. I start with short information from history of endoscopy and then continue with present. I have there two parts of my work, first shown that type of hysteroscopic procedure is a strong predictor of complications. Second part, that is not less important, is speaking about individual patient characteristics presented in chapter 2.