

My thesis deals with the complex institution of community property of spouses. After the short introduction which includes the survey of the development of community property of spouses on Czech territory, thesis characterises the theoretical and practical analysis of the important items of the community property of spouses. Generally spoken, thesis contains – besides introduction and conclusion – nine chapters. Each chapter is subdivided into several subchapters and some of them are subdivided into the parts.

My thesis utilized achievements of the Czech expert literature as well as judicature of the Czech courts.

Chapter One deals with the history of community property of spouses on the Czech territory. Chapter Two is concerned with the explanation of the formation of the community property of spouses. Chapter Three relates to the origin of community property of spouses. Chapter Four is addressed to the object. Chapter Five describes the contents of community property of spouses. Chapter Six examines the problems of the community property of spouses connected with business. Chapter last focuses on the problems of termination, restoration and settlement of community property of spouses. At the conclusion of my thesis I focus on my fundamental idea of the regime of property arrangement between spouses in the new social and legal conditions of 21. century