

In this diploma work entitled „Prevention of complication of intubation“ it was tried to describe primary prevention of complications which are connected with common and also alternative methods of intubation. Shortly is presented own study which is considered with Mallapamti classification as predictor of difficult intubation.