

This bachelor thesis deals with values and value orientation of primary school pupils. The theoretical part includes the definition of basic concepts such as value, value orientation, and characteristics of school age in terms of developmental psychology. The practical part of the work shows the progress of research, the results of a comparison of values for younger and older students.