This thesis describes the common types of attacks against web applications and web pages in general, the protective measures against them and the specific application of these measures in the e-shop. The goal of this thesis is the safe application using common resources, without using third-party frameworks or existing solutions.