

Diploma thesis „French Immigration Policy under Nicolas Sarkozy: from Ministry of the Interior to Ministry of Immigration“ deals with French immigration policy during Nicolas Sarkozy's era at the Ministry of the Interior and beginning of his presidency. Sarkozy initiated a selective approach in immigration policy that distinguish whether immigrants belong to “chosen” immigration or “suffered” immigration. Even though Sarkozy immigration policy can't be called revolution as he tended to do, it's rather evolution regarding the history of French immigration policy, he anyway made a little revolution in the institutional dimension by establishing Ministry of Immigration.
