

This work wants to describe the influence of computers, especially modern communication technologies on people from technological and sociological perspective. There will be involved positive influences connected with openness and accessibility of the information even negative influences connected with information abuse and illegal manners in information area. This paper will be aimed on communication problems, communication abuse and illegal use of information, freedom of communication and dissemination of the disinformation connected with anonymous environment of the Internet.