

Bachelor's survey about providing of first aid intervention and the relevant mistakes, which are done by non-professionals. It guides how to correctly process the first aid intervention. The survey describes the principles of basic life support, automated external defibrillators, telephonic assist basic life support, touches the law and connected sanctions when the first aid is refused.

The study brings proposal to include the theme of first aid in to curriculum the core of the study makes quantitative survey of first aid assistance training, refuses of first aid, misuse of first aid and guidelines how to assist. The samples are ordinary people and professional, as well.