The purpose of this theoretical bachelor thesis is to consider the concept of civilization in the work of Jaroslav Krejci. The work deals with the authors who have influenced Krejci's thoughts particular attention is paid to the British historian Arnold Toynbee. At the end of the thesis is Krejci's work put into the context of civilizational discourse. The work is based on the comparative method.