

The Bachelor Degree Thesis Personal assistance and its impact to independence and decision making adult client with mental disability is selected using qualitative research methods to describe the personal assistance and all the factors that can influence it. The first part focuses on the performance of an adult person with mental disability, and introduction to issues of personal assistance as one of social care services. The second part will be a detailed case study of adult client with mental disability.