

This documentation deals with a life of Afghan family which is much influenced by Islam religion and geographical, economical, political or law and many others aspects.

It describes a position of woman and child in the context of family hierarchy and also the problems of a rural big-family. It explains the reasons of a woman's role in the family and than particular and important phases in Afghan life.

Concretely, it deals with a child birth, the differences in upbringing between daughters and sons, a traditional woman's veil or the possibilities in the study.

Moreover it describes Afghan wedding and marriage, a polygamy and Muslim divorce. It also mentions about a final phase of the life.

Marginal theme is woman and public life, especially intent on possibilities of employment, position in trial and politics.

Key words: Afghan family, position of woman and child in the family, wedding and marriage, polygamy, divorce, upbringing of children, veil, public life