

The student deals with the unfolding of musicality and especially vocal and singing education of children in pre-school age. She starts from physiological, psychological and ontogenetical laws of this life period. In the practical part she describes the level of singing abilities progress of children before they enter the elementary school. In the methodological summaries she applies the results of the research and her own musical pedagogical experience to the musical educational practice.