

Diploma thesis „Comparative analysis of news transmission of televisions Z1 and ČT24“ deals with comparing the function and system of two czech news televisions. It compares the differences in their role in media scene of Czech republic, technologies and production. The comparative part of the thesis confronts each one of the evening transmissions in light of selecting the news, processing, compilation of the transmission and the role of the anchormen during the presentation.