

In the present work we present possibilities of use of the genetic algorithms in the automated theorem proving. We focus on the prover Prover9 and specially using the definitions for speeding up the search for clausulas. In the end we evaluate the benefit of the genetics algorithms in automated theorem proving.